Why do we need to change things?

About 600 people need a day service which is paid for by Dorset Council.

More than 300 of these people go to a day centre. The buildings are owned by Dorset Council.

- Many of the buildings are too big.
- Some need to be improved.
- Some are not very accessible.

Day services do not have to happen in these buildings.

We want to give more people more day opportunities instead: interesting activities in their local town or village.

Our plans

Our plans use the idea of hubs and spokes.

Imagine a bicycle wheel! The hub is in the middle. The spokes are the thin sticks of metal, reaching out from the hub.

Dorset is divided into these 5 areas.

There will be 1 hub in each area.
There will be lots of day opportunities all over that area. These are called the spokes.

Hubs

A hub is a building where activities can be run and organised. There could be:

- advice and information
- equipment for people to take home
- staff who organise community activities and training
- space for community organisations to work in

- support for health and wellbeing
- support for carers

Spokes

Spokes are day opportunities in towns and villages.

Here are some examples:

- gardening, cooking, arts and crafts

- lunch clubs

- swimming pools and leisure centres

- libraries

- dementia support

- support with benefits, housing, working and volunteering

Specialist services

Specialist services are based in the hubs and other places.

A specialist service can support people who need, for example:

- physiotherapy
- speech and language therapy
- hoists
- adapted furniture and toilets
- sensory room
- hydrotherapy pool

Staff in specialist services will be trained to do activities with people who need a lot of support.

Weymouth and Portland

At the moment there are 2 day services.
They are run by Care Dorset.

Weymouth: Weymouth Connect

Weymouth: Ridgeway Plus

Weymouth and Portland Hub

Our plan:

Weymouth Connect will become the Weymouth and Portland Hub.

Some ideas:

People, groups and organisations could use rooms in the hub for:

- lunch clubs
- health clinics
- classes
- activities and events

Ridgeway Plus

Ridgeway Plus is large and accessible.

There is space for outdoor activities.

The Ridgeway service could offer specialist services to people from all over Dorset.

We are not planning to move any services out of this building.

What this means for you

If you go to Weymouth Connect at the moment, you can:

- keep going to the same place: it will be called Weymouth and Portland Hub
- change to community activities
- change to a specialist service if you need more support

If you go to Ridgeway Plus at the moment, you can:

- keep going to the Ridgeway service
- change to community activities
- change to a specialist service if you need more support

Paying for day opportunities

If you might need support from Dorset Council, you can have an assessment. This helps the council to decide how much support you can get.

Your day opportunity can be paid for in a few different ways:

- Commissioned service: the council pays for your support
- Direct Payment: the council gives you money to organise your own support
- Individual Service Fund: the council gives the money to a care organisation to manage.
- Self-fund: pay for it yourself
